Zoho Schools of Learning Outreach Program (Truly Zoho Schools 2025)

- Name of the Event : Zoho Schools of Learning Outreach Program
- Date of Event : 19th September 2025
- Venue : Zoho Schools, Chennai

A team from IMRD visited Zoho Schools, Chennai, on 19th September 2025. The visit was undertaken by two faculty members, Ms. Archana Jade and Mr. Dinesh Borase, representing the institute. This visit to the Zoho Schools of Learning Outreach Program at Chennai was a truly eye-opening experience. From the moment we stepped onto Zoho's sprawling 45-acre campus, the environment reflected a culture of learning, creativity, and simplicity. The day began with a warm welcome by Dr. Sujaritha C. V, followed by an inspiring session from Mr. Rajendran Dandapani, President of Zoho Schools. Using the classic "5W and 1H" technique, he explained how Zoho Schools are building alternative pathways for young talent to succeed in software, design, business, and technology careers.

Observing Learning in Action:

One of the highlights was walking into live classrooms. We attended sessions on:

- Inheritance in Java and Software Testing Basics – taught with real-world Zoho product examples.
- Animation Dynamics and Wire framing for Websites – where creativity and design thinking took center stage.
- Community Marketing Strategies and Empathy-driven Email Campaigns – showing how business communication can be human and impactful.
- Mathematics in Cybersecurity and Operations Research – connecting classroom concepts with industry applications.

This exposure showed how theory is always tied to practice at Zoho Schools.

Engaging Student Sessions:

At Barynx – The Communication Lab, students presented "The Psychology of Colours in Marketing". Their confidence, clarity, and creativity in dissecting such an advanced topic were inspiring. It was refreshing to see students from rural villages and city schools sharing the same stage with equal enthusiasm.

Beyond Classrooms

- Agentic AI Session: Mr. Mahesh Aravinda's talk on Large Language Models that can "think, plan, and act" gave us a peek into the future of AI in education and business.

- Campus Product Introductions: Student teams confidently demonstrated their projects, proving how quickly they adapt and innovate.
- Panel Interaction: Faculty, parents, alumni, and managers openly shared both successes and challenge especially the struggle of convincing rural parents about non-traditional education paths.

Human Side of Zoho:

What struck us most was the simplicity and humility of the people at Zoho. Teachers, students, alumni, and leaders interacted as one community, with no hierarchy in learning. The campus tour, lively discussions over meals, and the openness of everyone we met created a sense of belonging.

Key Takeaways:

1. Learning by Doing: Every session tied back to a practical project, making knowledge immediately usable.
2. Equal Opportunity: Students from rural backgrounds were equally confident and successful, showing Zoho's model truly empowers.
3. Interdisciplinary Approach: Blending tech, business, and design helps students become versatile professionals.
4. Culture over Credentials: Skills, discipline, and curiosity are valued more than degrees.
5. Faculty as Mentors: Teachers guide students like co-learners, not just instructors.
